

Featured in

The List(P.8)

Posted on

15 JANUARY 2010

* The A-List

INTREPID TAI-TAI

Start your new year off with a bang by picking up tickets for Hong Kong's fabulous annual Arts Festival. Or if that sounds like too much hard work after the excesses of the season, unwind with a rejuvenating spa treatment from Sense of Touch. See you at the Hyatt's wonderful wine dinner on the 15th—I can't wait to catch up with Jeannie Cho Lee, Asia's very first Master of Wine. Cheers!

SHOPPING HOW TO HONG KONG

New to Hong Kong and want to find the best there is, and fast? Look no further than Tim Dickinson's new "How 2" guides. The first edition of these handy wallet-sized guides include dim sum, getting around, pampering and eating with kids, to name a few. Conveniently packaged in an artful fold-out souvenir "dragon wallet," it's the perfect gift for friends visiting the city. Available from Bookazine, Shop 309, 3/F Prince's Building, Central, 2522-1785, www.bookazine.com.hk.

DINING ASIAN PALATE

January 15, Asia's first Master of Wine, Jeannie Cho Lee will take center-stage together with One Harbour Road's Chef de Cuisine, Li Shu-tim to present an authentic Cantonese dinner menu. The event will include commentary and insight on how Cantonese flavors affect different styles of wine. The evening will begin with a pre-dinner cocktail with champagne and canapés, followed by an 8-course dinner paired with seven premium wines, and an interactive session "Mastering wine at the Cantonese table." What's more you'll receive a boxed gift set of Jeannie's coffee table book "Asian Palate," which retails at $718. $1,350 per head, 7/F and 8/F, Grand Hyatt Hong Kong, 1 Harbour Rd., Wan Chai, 2584-7722.

Tip For all you foodies out there, the 5th edition of the WOM Guide: Hong Kong's Best Selling Restaurant Guide, is now available.

Tip For all you foodies out there, the 5th edition of the WOM Guide: Hong Kong's Best Selling Restaurant Guide, is now available.